The Paducah fair opens today. Register today or take a back seat. With the entrance of Bulgaria, Germany will play her last card. Mexicans again fired on American soldiers near Brownsville, Sunday. This is the only day upon which a well man who is in Hopkinsville can register for future elections.

In a party of Russian refugees who reached Sweden were 25 insane men, whose sufferings had dethroned their reason.

Nine miners imprisoned in a coal mine at Lansford, Pa., were rescued alive Sunday after having been given up for lost. They had been imprisoned six days. Though very weak they are recovering.

It is now reported that Burbank, the wizard, has successfully grown a thornless rose. Humanity will not be greatly benefited by his discovery. Somehow we cannot think of the rose without the thorn. The two go together.—Commercial Appeal.

Germany has four armies, Prussians, Saxons, Bavarians and Wurttembergians, and the Prussian losses alone are given at 1,916,148. The loss in the last week of September was 63,468. Germany is slowly but surely weaning herself out whipping Russia.

Earthquake shakes were felt Saturday night in Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Idaho. In Nevada some minor damage was done. At Baker, Ore. and at Sacramento and Fresno, Cal., buildings swayed. In San Francisco the shocks were barely perceptible.

Florida's "package" law which forbids drinking intoxicants on the premises where publicly sold went into effect October 1. Under its provisions liquor may be bought in containers of not less than half a pint. It further provides that saloons must remain closed from 6 p. m. until 7 a. m.

TURKISH ATROCITIES.

Documentary evidence of the massacre and torture of the Armenians, made public by the American Atrocities Committee, reveals a condition worse than the horrors of the last thousand years as recorded by history. Quotations are given in the committee's report from twenty-four sources, some of which describe in detail instances where Armenians have been put to death, women violated and children slaughtered; of robbery, torture and death by starvation, and of terrible privations endured in long marches to the desert regions in which the Armenians have been exiled.

GERMANY STILL DALLIES

Fails to Disavow and Assume Liability For Sinking of Vessel.

NO IMMEDIATE DANGER

Secretary Lansing Declines to Comment on Situation—Negotiations Confidential.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Germany has failed to satisfy the request of the United States that sinking of the Arabic with a loss of American lives, be disavowed and liability for the act assumed by the imperial government. This came after a conference between President Wilson and Secretary Lansing, at which the secretary submitted a note given him in New York by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador.

No announcement was made after the White House conference. Secretary Lansing said merely that it was inadvisable to comment on the situation while the negotiations were still confidential.

Official information indicates that Germany is desirous of avoiding a break and on this officials are basing their hopes that in subsequent negotiations the Berlin foreign office will adjust amicably the question of reparation for lives lost.

KINCHELOE LOST RACE

But They Had To Go Out of His District To Beat Him.

Saturday afternoon the event that created most enthusiasm was the mule race participated in by fifteen traveling men and some who are not classed as drummers. The list of entries was as follows, names referring to riders and not to animals: Congressman Dave M. Kincheloe, Garner E. Dalton, Jno. J. Metcalfe, W. C. Brown, Paul Twyman, Paul Winn, Frank H. Mason, W. J. Chiles, Jr., R. G. Champion, George Boren, C. V. Utley, Lucian H. Davis, Wm. Stabler, Geo. N. Duffer, W. E. Trahern, Clyde Crenshaw.

Something was doing from the very start and it was soon made evident that some of the mules were destined to be outclassed and the line gradually became a cavalcade extending half way round the track. Four riders mounted on black mules forged far to the front and excitement became intense as they neared the wire and it was seen that Dave Kincheloe was one of them. There were storms of cheers from the 10,000 people who had paid to see the race and there was much disappointment when the eloquent young Congressman's mule proved a trifle too slow and was beaten for first place by the one ridden by W. C. Brown, a meat drummer from Louisville. Kincheloe was second, Paul Twyman third and Paul Winn fourth. Even the latter's name did not let him into the winning, as there were only three prizes.

POULTRY SHOW.

The Louisville Kennel association has signed articles of agreement with the Ohio Falls Fanciers' association for combining a dog and poultry show to be held in Louisville the week of November 22.

DO IT TO-DAY.

If you are a citizen of Hopkinsville, at home to-day and not sick, you will have to register before 9 o'clock to-night or be out of politics for a year. Failure to register forfeits your vote in the primary for City Commissioner October 16 and also in the general election on November 2.

FAIR FINISHED IN A BLAZE OF GLORY

Record Crowd of Was In Attendance On Saturday And The Gloom of The Early Days Passed Away.

EVERYBODY VOTED THE FAIR A SUCCESS

Saturday saved the Pennyroyal Fair and the crowd was one of the largest ever seen on the grounds. The weather was ideal and the mud gradually disappeared under the genial rays of the sun and the program of races was carried out without any sort of trouble.

The gate receipts ran well up into the thousands and the Fair was pulled out of what looked like a mighty deep hole.

The merchants also had a fine day's trade and a more cheerful aspect was seen on all sides.

With the fine weather still prevailing, the merchants are now busy reaching out for an old-time busy season's business.

Saturday morning Congressman D. H. Kincheloe delivered a fine speech as one of the features of Traveling Men's Day, and in the afternoon he rode a mule in the free for all race, finishing near the front.

STORM'S TOLL EXCEEDS 300

None of the 183 Reported Dead Have Yet Been Accounted For.

RELIEF VESSELS STILL OUT

Situation in New Orleans Improving—Food and Supplies Sent to Sufferers.

New Orleans, Oct. 4.—Scores of relief vessels dispatched from almost every point along the Louisiana and Mississippi gulf coast Sunday were searching all sections of the storm-stricken district where hundreds of persons were reported marooned and without food as a result of Wednesday's hurricane. The list of known dead still stood at 202. None of the 183 persons reported dead had been accounted for and it was feared that many of them must be included in the number of casualties. Of the 117 persons known to have been missing Saturday, several had arrived at various points and others had reported their safety by messengers. The total death list will be well above 300, the authorities believe.

AUTO SHOW BRILLIANT

Spirited Contest For Several Prizes Including Most Beautiful Woman Occupant.

The closing feature of the fair was the automobile show Saturday night, under direction of Ben McReynolds, and Hopkinsville society was out in force. It was a fitting close to one of the best days in the history of the fair and while the number of cars shown was not as large as had been expected, those in the show were the very best in the city and county and some from other counties. The cars were nearly all filled with pretty women and girls and several of the vehicles were beautifully decorated in ribbons, flags and flowers.

The judges were Messrs. P. W. Ray, J. L. Rawls and J. W. Fieds and it was no easy task they were called upon to perform. The cars were all beautiful and the display of eighteen circling the track at one time, or drawn up in a long line in front of the grand stand was most inspiring. The crowd took a deep interest in the contests and there was much applause from the audience as the favorite cars flashed by.

The contest for the best lady driver was very spirited and exciting and finally narrowed down to three—Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. Will D. Summers and Miss Frances Summers. After requiring the contestants to engage in many individual maneuvers, the award was finally given to Mrs. Mitchell, who drove a beautiful Cadillac.

The following parties had cars in the show:

Dr. F. H. Bassett, Dr. F. M. Brown, John E. Byars, J. E. Cooper, Geo. N. Duffer, A. H. Eckles, Sam Frankel, M. C. Forbes, Tom Johnson, Chas. M. Meacham, Jr., W. L. Mitchell, John J. Metcalfe, Brockman Mason, A. D. No., Miss Frances Summers, Will D. Summers, W. E. Trahern, Paul Winn.

The prizes were awarded as follows:

Handsomest car in the show, Cadillac type 51, driven by Chas. M. Meacham, Jr., of Morganfield, Ky., cash prize of $10.

Most attractive car and occupants, same car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Meacham, Jr., Mrs. Will Kimmons, Mrs. Robert Stowe and Misses Bet Ware, Mary Crenshaw and Marie Wright. Prize, 10 lbs. candy.

Best lady driver, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, in Cadillac. Five pounds candy.

Handsomest couple, Mr. Julien Brown and Miss Sarah Woodruff in Dr. F. Manning Brown's 1916 Cadillac. Four dinners at Hotel Latham.

Most beautiful woman in the show, Miss Annie Barker, in Mr. John Tom Johnson's car. 1 dozen American Beauty Roses.

BULGARIA'S ULTIMATUM

Russia Insists on Open Break With Central Powers at Once.

DEMANDS IMMEDIATE ACTION

Believed King Ferdinand Has Decided to Aid Germany—Attack on Serbia Is Probable.

London, Oct. 4.—The Russian minister at Sofia has been ordered by his government to leave the Bulgarian capital if within twenty-four hours Bulgaria does not openly break with the central powers and dismiss Austro-German officer in that country directing the operations of King Ferdinand's army.

The other powers of the quadruple entente are backing up Russia in this demand, and Bulgaria must decide within a few hours on continued neutrality or be considered definitely committed to the central powers.

It is considered certain here that King Ferdinand and Premier Radoslavoff have made their choice and are awaiting only the completion of mobilization to strike at Serbia and assist the Austro-Germans to open the road to Constantinople, which has been anxiously waiting for many weeks for promised aid from the central powers.

Greece, it is believed, will live up to her treaty with Serbia and go to her assistance if she is attacked by her neighbor. The attitude of Rumania, which remains a partly mobilized spectator, is uncertain.

Rain and mud have prevented the Anglo-French armies from continuing their full offensive in Artois. Fighting of a stubborn nature, however, is still going.

The air raid in Champagne on Saturday night by six French aeroplanes was the biggest thing of the kind undertaken. The French, according to the German report, have lost the airship Alsace, men downed a few days ago in the official communication as doing valuable work.

There is little or no change in the east. The Russians, while being forced back at one or two points, are passing the Germans at others, particularly east of Vilna, where Von Hindenburg's drive toward Minsk has been checked.

NOTED SOCIAL CENTER WORK

Miss Pauline Witherspoon to Speak on Charity Work Oct. 14.

Miss Pauline Witherspoon, known as the genius of Social Center Work in Kentucky, will speak in Hopkinsville Thursday night Oct. 14th at the Westminster Presbyterian church. The occasion will be an open meeting of the Associated Charities of the city, and the purpose is to give the public some idea of the work being done in Hopkinsville along the lines of charity in a proper and systematic way. Miss Witherspoon will make an address on how the work can be bettered, and she is one who knows. Her work in Louisville covering years of successful results makes her especially qualified for appearing before those interested in the work here. The directors of the Associated Charities are making an earnest effort to interest the entire city in this meeting, knowing Miss Witherspoon's ability to charm and delight an audience with her belief that boys and girls should play and be just as happy as it is possible for their town to make them.

She has had a big happy work in Louisville and comes to tell us how to help conditions in Hopkinsville. Every one is invited to hear her.

Nearly a dozen French aviators,
all of them picked men, have gone to

ing off Zeppelins. French aviators,
it is said, are drilling the English
flyers in the art of pursuing Zeppel-

have proved so effective.

The Democratic managers of Louisville have been informed that if it is possible for him to get away from Washington, President Wilson will come to Kentucky and make one speech for Stanley. An invitation was extended to him by Senator James and in the conversation between the two, the President told Senator James that he was keenly interested in the race Stanley is making and wanted to do everything in his power to help him. This is an unusually busy time with the President, owing to the complicated foreign affairs, and he naturally could not make a definite promise at the time Senator James called on him.
He did promise, however, that if
pressure of work prevented his coming to Kentucky to make a speech,
he would write a letter which would leave no doubt in the mind of anyone as to the strong personal regard
he has for Stanley.

The keynote of the ideal Government that have moved A. O. Stanley
during his public career were voiced in a few words by Stanley himself in an extemporaneous speech he delivered at the state fair in Louisville on September 16th. The gubernatorial candidate was speaking of good roads and said: "What has preserved
this government for 150 years or more? I will tell you: The plain citizen seated in a cane bottom chair on a rag carpet, before an open fire place, with a Bible on his knees and his family grouped about him, his head bowed, simply and reverently
asking God to direct him through the night, and arising in fear of that same God at dawn, to take up the simple tasks of the day. He votes
with no thought of profit to himself,
but for the good of his family and
the honor of his country and the glory of his God. This is the power
upon which this republic rests, and must forever rest."

TUTUILA, THE HAPPY ISLE

Leads the World in Percentage of
Sunday School Children—People Live Simple Lives.

The efforts of the Medical department of the United States have practically stamped out "tonss" among the natives of the Island of Tutuila, Samoa.

Surgeons C. F. Ely and John C. Parham of the navy have accomplished
wonders. Even the dreaded elephantiasis is decreasing among the natives.

The island of Tutuila, which was ceded by the chief of the Manila group
to the United States in 1900, and accepted by the president, has as yet
had no appropriation from congress.
The duties of naval officers on station
at the island are dual, as in addition to performing their regular naval duties, they must act as county officials.

Commander J. M. Poyer, U. S. N., recently succeeded Commander C. D.
Strams, U. S. N., as commander of the naval station and civil governor of the island.

Children between the ages of six
and fourteen must attend school. They are first instructed in their own language, which has only 14 letters in the alphabet, and then they are taught English.

The people are simple and happy.
They are Christians, and the island
holds the record for the world in the greatest percentage of children attending Sunday school.

The island is about six miles wide
and about eighteen miles in length.
The population is about 5,000. The $10,000 appropriated by congress and the $2,000 donated by the Red Cross
for the relief of the natives after the hurricane that swept the island on January 3, demolishing all of the houses, is being well used. The natives have again planted their crops
and rebuilt their homes.

WASHING IS MODERN CUSTOM

Only in Comparatively Recent Times
Has the Idea of Cleanliness Become Common.

One must not forget that regular
and systematic cleansing of the person is a very modern fashion. As late as the early part of the nineteenth century toothbrushes were not allowed in certain French convents, being looked upon as a luxury.

Cleanliness was not very common a century and a half ago in any country.

In 1770 the publication of Monsieur
Perrel's "Pogonotomie, ou l'Art d'ap-prendre a se raser soi-meme," created a sensation among fashionable
people, and enthusiasts studied self-shaving.

The author of Lois de la Galanterie in 1640 writes: "Every day one should take pains to wash one's hands
and one should also wash one's face
almost as often!"

The copious streams of hot and cold water, turned into a porcelain tub at any time of the day or night, the brushes and soaps and towels and tol-
let waters and powders of our day,
were quite unknown to our not far-off
ancestors.

The oft-repeated and minute ablu-tions of our day are almost as modern
as bicycles, and not as ancient as the railways.

Fighting Quicksand.

In sinking a shaft there are few things that a miner can encounter
which are more unwelcome to him
than a deep vein of quicksand. That is what has been struck at a Michigan iron mine. In quicksand the ordinary procedure of timbering down as the excavating is done is impossible. In most instances the work must be done
in much the same manner as a caisson is sunk. This makes necessary the construction of a casing by bolting together heavy timbers equally about a foot in thickness. At the bottom of each wall of this timbered "chimney"
a cutting shoe is trimmed on the inside so as to assist the shaft in sinking under its own weight. All the material beneath the walls of the structure is in this way squeezed, or cut,
into the confines of the casing, while
the latter gradually sinks as the excavating is carried on. As rapidly as the shaft sinks into the earth additional timbers are bolted in place on top, this operation continuing until rock is encountered.

Tea the Allies' Favorite Drink.

The favorite drink of the French
army today, as it is in both the English and Russian armies, is tea. There are many tea canteens along the front, where men can get hot cups of tea on entering and leaving the trenches. Every one of these I have seen has been full, and single canteens
sometimes serve 25,000 cups of tea a day.—Arno Doeh in World's Work.

Did Away With Madder.

Allizarin, a dyestuff, was first synthetically produced in 1869, in which
year the world production of madder
was 110,000,000 pounds of roots, representing 1,100,000 to 1,500,000 pounds
of allizarin, worth $11,250,000. In 1870
France had approximately 50,000
acres under madder cultivation, which soon disappeared after the introduction of the artificial product.

Naturally.

"I saw Mabel buying rouge the other day."

"That gives color to the report that she paints."

Precocious Pat.

"Now, Pat, tell the class why words
have roots."

"I guess, ma'am, that's the only way
the language could grow."

Pains All Over.

Houston, Tex.—"For five years,"
says Mrs. L. Fulencheck, of this place,
"I suffered with pains all over, especially in my back and side, and was so weak I could hardly do my house
work. A friend told me of Cardui.
Since taking it, I feel so much better!
Now I can do all my housework and pains do not bother me any more at all." Cardui is a strength-building medicine. Fifty years of success
have produced, amongst its many users, confidence in Cardui and what it will do. During this time, Cardui has relieved the female ailments of
over a million women. Why not you?
Try it, today. Your druggist sells it.

FAN UNIVERSAL IN CHINA

Article, Either Cheap or Costly. Is Appurtenance of All Citizens of the Republic.

Though the Japanese have the reputation of making the fan popular, they adopted the fashion from the Chinese.
Chinese women are rarely seen without a fan in their hands, attached to the side or tucked away in a skirt
pocket.

Nearly every dress worn by a Chinese woman is trimmed with a long
silk cord that is fastened around her waist. On this cord she often has a fan, a small parasol, snuff boxes,
tobacco pouches, spectacle case and a tiny purse. Whatever else is not there the fan is sure to occupy an important place. The women of means have beautiful silk fans, hand
painted and set with mother of pearl or golden sticks. These are usually incased in beautifully decorated cases, which they attach to their girdles. The woman of small means contents herself to placing her more modest fan between the collar of her coat and the back of the neck. When these women are not fanning themselves they are using this feminine weapon to keep off the sun as one would use a parasol. The schoolmaster uses his fan to rap the knuckles of his pupils by way of punishment.

KNEW THE BIGGEST THING

Laborers Did Not Exactly Comprehend Inquiry, But They Did
What They Could.

Charles J. Schuh of Irvington was in Cleveland not long ago and found himself with an hour or two on hand and nothing to do. His mind turned to Lako Erie, and he would have turned his footsteps the same way but he did not know the direction. A half-dozen laborers, who from their appearance
were foreigners, came along. Hailing one of them, Schuh asked the way to the lake. Not a man in the crowd could understand. Schuh asked them
in German, with the same result.

"It's funny," said Schuh, "that you fellows do not know the biggest thing
about your whole city."

Comprehension dawned in one. He nodded and smiled and gesticulated.
He said something to the others,
whereupon they too smiled and bowed
most agreeably. "Come with us," they said in signs, and one took Schuh by each arm. The others organized a procession behind. Down the street
they went and around the corner—to a saloon.

The cool and dripping picture on the window indicated that the kind sold
there were big ones, but Schuh escaped.—Indianapolis News.

Book Borrower's Duty.

Have you borrowed a book? Read and return it. If you cannot read it soon, return it and trust to your heing able to borrow it again. In keeping it an unreasonable time, you
may be keeping someone else from
the pleasure reading it may afford.
Look over your shelves and see what you have there that should be returned. The man who should borrow so little as a quarter of a dollar from a neighbor and fail to return it would not invite respect. Yet it is quite as bad not to return a book or magazine. Who has not had anguish of heart to have some choice, dearly
prized volume returned, soiled or torn, with pages lacking? That "Tom upset his inkstand," or "the baby got hold of it" or similar excuse, does not mend the matter. The borrowed book should be protected from such accidents. What was worth borrowing is certainly worth returning. Certainly it should be clear in your mind that it is not yours but the property of another.—Milwaukee Journal.

Noble Human Faculty.

It is a noble faculty of our nature
which enables us to connect our thoughts, sympathies, and happiness
with what is distant in place or time;
and looking before and after, to hold
communion at once with our ancestors and our posterity. There is a moral, and philosophical respect for our ancestors, which elevates the character and improves the heart.
Next to the sense of religious duty
and moral feeling, I hardly know
what should bear with stronger obligation on a liberal and enlightened
mind than a consciousness, too, that
in its acts and conduct, and even
in its sentiments and thoughts, it may be actively operating on the happiness of those that come after it.
—Daniel Webster.

Rain.

There are so many things worse
than rain that we refuse to fret about
it. If we had the toothache every other day for two months straight we might growl; if an amateur cornetist
lived next door and practiced regularly we should complain; if bills
were sent in once a week instead of once a month, if bores never went home, if all friendship were mercenary and false in adversity, if sickness
visited us oftener and stayed longer
than health, if malicious people were
many and the kind few we might ju-stifiably be miserable and remain so.
But so long as so many worse
things that could be don't arrive it can rain every day if it wants to.
Most of our joy is weather-proof.

NOVEL PATRON SAINT

Supposed to Influence "Woman's Crowning Glory."

Shrine Has Been Erected to Mother
Manephie, in Kilmvoe, at Which Women Who Desire Beautiful
Hair Make Prayers.

Who is the patron goddess of the long, lustrously beautiful hair? Or is there a patron saint that presides
over "woman's crowning glory"? Modern science, social usage and commercial arrangement have combined
patron saint and goddess in the shape, deft woman who conducts the "hairdressing salon." The furnishings
and the conventions observed in the
"salon" make the term no misnomer
and, though the adept might learnedly
discuss the historical ladies who were gowned luxuriously—not omitting Lady Godiva and the queen of Sheba—it is a safe wager she makes no mention of Mother Manephie, who, though unheralded to the great outside world, is nevertheless one of the most potent
of guardians of the hair. Trans-Volcan
peasants have erected a shrine to her.
Mother Manephie died in Kilmvoe
about fifteen years ago. In the memory of the people among whom she lived no woman ever had hair to equal
hers in length, luster, fineness of texture and the magical way in which it imprisoned the light—not only the radiance of the sun, but the moonlight and the diamond-like glitter of the stars! And her length of hair measured with her length of wisdom
and its beauty matched her kindness
of heart.

Even when she lived the superstitious peasants invested her with supernatural powers. The shrine was a natural complement. There it is that women and children who desire beau-

for Beautiful Hair.

ful hair pray for it. But never a man.
And, if local testimony goes for anything, the "holy woman," in favoring
many suppliants, has performed many prodigies. A story is told of a woman, bald through illness, to whom was given a new and wondrous crown of hair.

Japanese Women Doctors in Burma.
Burma has charity hospitals under
the management of British people,
but the natives do not take kindly
to their treatment. There are a limited number of native woman physicians in Burma, but their skill is not yet sufficient to obtain public confidence. The situation has consequently created a strong demand in Burma
for Japanese doctors, especially female medical practitioners. A Chinese millionaire manufacturer, Liu Chentsung, is one of those who favor
the Japanese female doctors, and engaged two women, each at a salary of $100. Miss Matsuno Yoda and Miss Sakaya Kwano were chosen. It is decided that they will leave Tokyo for their posts shortly. The two ladies are to work in Rangoon among a group of native women, who belong to the factory of Mr. Liu. It is the intention of Mr. Liu upon the arrival of these women to establish a hospital.—East and West News.

Rubber Ousting Tobacco.
Strange are the capers of competition! As far away as British North Borneo the rubber estates are gradually forcing tobacco growing to the wall.
Our consul at Sandakan says that only a few tobacco estates are now remaining, but that no less than twenty rubber estates, averaging 26,360 acres
each and a capital of $11,970,000, are under cultivation, and 19 of them are producing rubber. Within three years
more all estates will be exporting
crude rubber and in five years all trees
now set out will be ready for tapping.
In 1914, 1,373,000 pounds of cultivated rubber was produced. Lack of regular rainfall makes against tobacco.
Cocoanut growing competes with both
and is setting limits to the expansion
of rubber productions.—Wall Street Journal.

Can This Be True?
The Bachelor—I wonder why the average married woman is always so anxious to be seen with her husband
in public?
The Spinster—I don't know, of course, but I imagine it's because a public place is the only one in which
a woman can induce her husband to treat her with due consideration.

The "Stocking Bank."

The banking of small change in stockings is strictly original with women. Men's socks extend only a trifle
above the ankle and usually have holes in the heels, which make them
rather unsafe depositories, while a lady's stocking has its entrance at the knee cap, hence it would be a difficult matter to draw upon her bank unless
the draft were duly certified by the lady herself.—"Zim" in Cartoons Mag-

PLACE FOR SEED CORN

One of Most Important Factors in Increasing Yield.

Three Necessary Conditions for Storing—Air Circulation to Carry Off
Moisture, Even Temperature
and Early Selection.

After time has been spent selecting seed corn, it would be folly to store it
in a place where it would not keep.
Freshly gathered seed corn should not be left in piles in a warm room, or on the floor. It will either sprout, mold or do both. Always store seed corn
where there is a good circulation of air, so it will dry out quickly. Never leave it in boxes, in piles, on the porch or in the barn. It should be taken care of at once.

There are only three necessary conditions for storing seed corn; and, if
these are followed, one may be reasonably sure that 95 per cent or more
of his corn will germinate, provided
it was properly matured. First, there must be a good circulation of air
about each ear, to carry away the surplus moisture. Second, a temperature
must be maintained above freezing
until the seed is thoroughly dry.
Third, seed corn must be selected
early enough so that it may have plenty of time to dry before cold weather.

Many devices, easily and cheaply
built, are now in use whereby circulation of air can be secured around each ear of corn. Four very desirable methods of storing seed corn on the farm are here suggested. A frame of

Seed Corn Tree—Very Good Device on Which to Store Seed Corn.

2x4s may be built, about four feet square. Braces should be nailed on each end, to make the frame stand upright. After this has been done,
stretch chicken-wire over both sides,
nailing it securely; using care to make the meshes on both sides to correspond. In each mesh can be placed an ear, no two ears touching. In case
chicken-netting is not available, nail boards over the frame, drive ten-penny finishing nails through the boards from each side, and jab the ears on the nails, butt first. The nails
should stand up slightly, so the ears
will not fall off.

KEEP SEEDS FROM RIPENING

Avoid All Sources of Weed Introduction, Such as Weedy Barnyards, Roadsides and Waste Places.

In fighting weeds it is not only important to avoid introducing their
seeds into the fields with seed grain,
but it is important as well to avoid
other sources of weed introduction
such as weedy barnyards, fence rows,
roadsides, ditches and waste places in general. The weeds should be kept well cut throughout the season as far as possible and thus prevented from ripening seeds to be carried to the fields by wind, water and animals. As fast as possible these places should be cleared and cleaned up and a good clean grass sod established. Weed seed-infested manure is another source of weed introduction that should be guarded against. Such manure should be well composted before being applied to the fields in order that the weed seeds in it may be killed.

COWS TORMENTED BY FLIES

Dairymen Will Find It Profitable to Use Repellent of Some Kind—
Increases Milk Flow.

Ever notice how cows come up on
their milk in fly time, when a cool,
breazy spell that temporarily checks
the flies happens along? It's mostly because the poor beasts get a chance to feed without being driven to it by actual hunger, and they lose less vitality from being tormented by the flies.

Trouble is such spells don't come often enough nor last long enough to have much value, but you can gain
just about the same ends by putting fly dope on the cows. It costs little,
takes little time to apply and pays
well. Try it.

Every farmer should raise bees.

GOOD WOMAN REARED IN SUMMONED CHRISTIAN

Mrs. Elizabeth V. Gant, one of Mrs. J. H. Pierce Passes Away
Hopkinsville's Noblest Women, Closes Well Spent Life in Texas at Age of 80.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gant died Friday afternoon at the home of her son-in-law, Dr. F. M. Stites, aged 84 years. Mrs. Gant was born in Elkton, July 5, 1831, her maiden name being Elizabeth Virginia Crabb. She was married to Joseph K. Gant June 19, 1848, and came to this city to live, her husband being a prominent citizen and pioneer tobacco dealer. Their first home was in the house now owned by Monroe Bullard on West Thirteenth street. They later erected the handsome homestead on East Seventh street, where Mrs. Gant died, after making her home with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Stites, for a number of years.

She was a lifelong member of the Baptist church, and was a most consecrated christian, whose long life was a shining example of the blessings of christianity. She was universally beloved for her gentle nature and many lovable traits of character and the good deeds for which she was ever noted.

Funeral services were held at the residence Sunday afternoon by her pastor, Rev. Calvin M. Thompson, and the burial was in Riverside cemetery.

The pall bearers were her grandsons, Dr. Gant Gaither, Frank Stites, Jr., Joseph Stites and James Stites and great-grandsons Robert Cooper and Wm. Wash.

She is survived by three daughters and one son, Mrs. Nat Gaither, Mrs. Elizabeth Rawlins, Jared C. Gant, of Kansas City, and Mrs. F. M. Stites. Another son, Jos. K. Gant, Jr., died a number of years ago, leaving several children. Besides her children, Mrs. Gant's descendants comprise 28 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Undergoes Operation.

Miss Nell Wash underwent an operation in Evansville Tuesday, and news from her bedside is to the effect that she stood the operation splendidly and is getting along nicely. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wash, accompanied her to Evansville last week, but Mr. Wash returned home Saturday. Mrs. Wash is in Evansville with Miss Nell, Record.

Mrs. J. H. Pierce died last week at her home in Red Oak, Texas. The deceased was before her marriage Miss Elmira Radford, daughter of the late Johnson Radford, and was reared in this county. She was an aunt of Mrs. John A. Brown, of this city. Mrs. Pierce was 80 years old and had been a member of the Methodist church more than half a century. One son, H. A. Pierce, of Texas, survives.

SUBMARINE LOSSES

INVOLVED IN DOUBT.

London, Oct. 1.—A desire for absolute precision was advanced by Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty in the house of commons as the reason for not making public figures on German submarine losses.

Mr. Balfour expressed great sympathy with the desire for such information, but said that the difficulty of satisfying curiosity on the subject arises from the inevitable margin of doubt which attaches to any attempt to estimate the numbers of enemy submarines destroyed and the consequent impossibility of giving accurate statistics.

"We have every gradation," he added, "from absolute certainty, through practical assurance, down to faint possibility. Facts like these are not fitted for statistical statements. Should the admiralty confine itself to cases of absolute certainty, we undoubtedly would be understating the truth. If we included all cases of reasonable possibility we might be exaggerating, and no defensible line can be drawn between those two degrees."

ACTION TAKEN

TO STOP HAZING AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Six Midshipmen Dismissed, Four Suspended and Fifteen Others Demoted.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Dismissal of six midshipmen, suspension of four others for one year without pay and the returning to the next lowest class of fifteen others was announced by Secretary Daniels as the result of the recent hazing investigation at the Naval academy.

Home addresses of the six dismissed midshipmen follow:

LaMotte, Seattle, Wash.; Glick, Pittsburg, Pa.; Bolling, Philadelphia, Pa.; Tuley, Louisville, Ky.; Hill, Moscow, Idaho, and Cook, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Midshipmen whose sentences were commuted to a year's suspension without pay are: W. C. Wilcock, Buffalo, N. Y.; Joseph S. Ives, Bardonia, Ky.; Paul Dingwell, Pawtucket, R. I.; David P. Minard, Aberdeen, S. D.

These men and those dismissed were found guilty on more than one count of hazing, and, in several cases, of untruthfulness on the stand.

The fifteen set back a year in their class work were each found guilty of one hazing offense. Among them are:

First class: Francis W. Benson, Charleston, S. C.

Second class: Arthur B. Craig, Raleigh, N. C.; Joseph J. Clark, Chelsea, Okla.; Albert L. Hutson, New Orleans; Paul Meadows, Ruston, La.; Howard G. Gamble, Tallahassee, Fla., and John A. Whitson, Water Valley, Miss.

"I Should Worry."

I've paid for the butter, the eggs and meat.

I've paid for the gas, the ice and the heat;

I've even paid doctor's and dentist's bill, too.

I've settled with plumbers before they were through.

I've paid all the servants, the taxes and rent.

And another big bill the druggist just sent;

But the hardest of all, and I'm worried at that

Is the bill that I'll get for my wife's winter hat.

CANPAIGN OPENED

With a Speech by John C. Duffy for the State Ticket.

The Democratic campaign was opened yesterday in the Circuit Court room by John C. Duffy. Court adjourned and a good crowd heard Mr. Duffy discuss the issues of the campaign. It was a day set apart for a general opening of the campaign.

Real Highbrow.

The head of a big New York business concern is exceptionally tall and his height is further accentuated by his exceeding slimmness. The other day a visitor from the South called to see him and was duly asked to sit down. After they had concluded their business the visitor rose to go and his host rose also, and seemed to rise and rise. The Southerner, letting his glance travel upward, as though inspecting a new species of skyscraper, and with an expression of awed admiration, ejaculated: "Great Scott, old man, your parents must have trained you on a trellis!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Horne's Oak."

There was a tradition, as old as Shakespeare's time, that one Horne, a keeper in Windsor park, hung himself upon a certain oak tree and that it was ever after haunted by his ghost. Some say the tree was inadvertently cut down in 1796, and others that it stood until blown down in 1863. The British Encyclopedia recognizes the legend without vouching for its truth, and says that Queen Victoria planted a young oak on the spot where the old "Horne oak" blew down in 1863.

"Deliver the Goods."

It will be interesting to see whether "Deliver the Goods" will come to rank among our historical political phrases. It is a pure Americanism, typically so; and is one of those gems of transatlantic speech that are so expressive that their meaning is instantly recognized by the most untravelled Englishman. But is it necessary to have recourse to what is after all American slang in order to describe a grave and national emergency? The resources of English as spoken on this side of the Atlantic are not so limited.—London Globe.

PANAMA CANAL IS CLOSED BY LANDSLIDE

Little Prospect of Clearing the Channel Before November 1.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Department dispatches announced that there was little prospect of reopening the Panama canal before November 1. Since the channel was blocked by a slide north of Gold Hill September 20, the movement of earth and rock has continued steadily.

Hundreds of vessels will be held up by closing of the canal for forty days or more, causing the first serious interruption of traffic through the isthmus since the canal was opened in August, 1914. Ships were waiting to pass through the waterway three days ago.

The present slide began when the canal had been open just ten days after a slide that blocked it for weeks.

It has almost entirely filled the channel and earth shows above the water where ships ordinarily pass.

Mystery of Charm.

Certain men and women, immediately on our first meeting them, make us desire to meet them again; not because they have uttered remarkable thoughts or reminded us of Venus or Apollo; perhaps they have said nothing that you and I couldn't say, and we may know people much better looking. But they radiate—what is it that they radiate? We feel it, we bask in it, it flows over us. It isn't sunlight or moonlight, but a fairy-light of their own. When these shining creatures come into the room, happiness enters with them. How do they do it? It gets us nowhere to say that there is "something" in the tone of their voice, or "something" in the look of their eyes. What is the something? I'm glad I don't know; mystery is growing so scarce that I am thankful for anything which cannot be explained.—Atlantic Monthly.

Take Things Calmly.

Some people act as if they were always just a few minutes behind time. If they could catch up their lives would be serene. But they never do catch up. Breathlessly they go through the day as if in pursuit of a phantom. Often they live under a great nervous tension. At the end of the day they are exhausted. One hears them speak as if they were subjected to great trials, including overwork. But, as a matter of fact, the trouble lies wholly within themselves. If they would only calm down and do quietly and serenely what they have to do life would take on a wholly different aspect for them, becoming, instead of a torment, a source of peace and happiness.—Exchange.

Star Systems All in Action.

It is known that all of the star systems are in nightly action. All are whirling within themselves, and also as entities of systems, whirling throughout the unfathomable unknown, but whether they are tending is as inexplicable to human comprehension, notwithstanding all the splendid accomplishments of astronomical science aided by marvelous instruments, as comprehension of time and space. The assumption that the central pivot of revolution is Canopus is as imaginary as the assumption that Alcione was that center of universal gravitation and the throne where sat the eternal Deity directing all of the labyrinth of star systems with an omnipotent thought.

Greed for Money.

The love of money can hardly be the root of all evil, for it is only one perverse passion out of many. But there is a kind of decorum about money which makes the love of it peculiarly dangerous, since it conceals from the lover the nature and effects of his passion. If a man wants too much food, he is evidently greedy. If a woman wants too many clothes she is evidently vain. But money is not a thing, like clothes or food, that can be enjoyed by itself. It is only a means of getting things that can be enjoyed, and so greed for money is not a direct greed, but indirect. It is a civilized means of conducting the struggle for life, which to a great extent conceals from those who use it the ugliness and the animal nature of that struggle. It is, in fact, a kind of diplomacy, politely conducted, behind which there is war; but the diplomats often do not see the war.

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

This master of the pen shows you the story that was Greece's and the genius that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Duruy's compendium in brilliant manner. It is the story of the past, the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

READING COUNTS FOR MUCH

Matter to Which Too Little Attention Is Paid by the Ordinary Man or Woman.

A certain low form of aquatic animal life anchors itself to a rock and feeds on whatever the current brings. The average man feeds his mind in much the same way. He falls into line for current amusements. He reads only current literature. He listens to what happens to go by. He makes but little systematic attempt to shut out the unfit or to put himself in line for the fit.

The result is, says the Minneapolis Journal, a defective grade of human life that rarely elevates society and often degrades it. If a man would make the most of himself, and that is manifestly the supreme purpose for which he was put into the world, it is worth his while to do his daily work where unclean things, mental and physical, are not made common. It makes a good deal of difference in the worth of the man today as to whether his reading last night was "Hamlet" or "Isis" or "The Other Man's Wife," whether he went to the art institute or the burlesque show. An ancient teacher of well-balanced mind gave this direction to his disciples as to the topics to be selected for deliberate thought:

"Finally, my brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

To think on these things one must see and hear these things. To see and hear these things one must make an effort to do so.

Early German Marriage Custom. Among the early Germans money was given to the bride's relatives on the wedding day, but this usage was not followed if the marriage happened to be an unequal one.

And Trouble Follows. Love may be blind, but if a man's wife is a brunette she can see a blonde half on his vest 13 blocks away.

LIMIT TO THE OBSERVATION

Peculiar Fact That Most People Can See Only What They Are Trained to See.

There once visited the Canary Islands a painter who had lately come from Holland. The picture which recorded his first impression of Tenerife gave, not the hot, clear, flatish coloring which is typical of the island, but a study of a windmill, shown atmospherically among gray mists and deep subdued tones. In the farther foreground trudged two figures, silhouetted in the gloom almost dead black against the gleam of a wet road. It was a faithful record, but of Tenerife in a rare mood; and everyone who saw it, said at once, "Ob, yes—Dutch." This is an example, such as most artists could multiply, of that instinctive habit by which we select for notice the things which we have grown accustomed to seeing. It may partly explain how two thoroughly "realistic" painters can record almost diametrically opposed impressions of the same scene. It may further point to an explanation, in part, of many wide differences of opinion among experts, even upon matters of fact—scientific, social, national. Trained observers are likely to be men who see what they have been trained to see, and nothing else. They go in blinkers, of which each pair is made on a different and the only correct pattern.

JUST A GENERAL NUISANCE

Oat Smudge, or Oat Louse, One of the Most Annoying Small Things in the Universe.

The oat louse has no wings, and yet it flies through the air, borne on the gentle breezes which waft over the fields. It has no legs, and yet it adheres to the flesh of man with a devotion that is inspiring. Some persons call it the oat smudge, but most persons call it by some harder name.

A fine way to accumulate the tribe is to take a trolley trip near fields where the honest husbandman has been garnering his crops. There the oat lice, which are about the size of overgrown black fleas, fill the air quite numerous.

After such a ride they can be found adhering to the arms and face, with a small sprinkling down the neck. At heart they are innocent young things, neither biting nor stinging, and yet, because of their peculiar rolling motion, they are ticklish little devils. So people shake them off.

The particular niche in nature filled by oat lice is not quite clear, so it is quite reasonable to assume that they have been set apart to offset the manifold joys of the suburbanite.

Family of Hymn Writers.

The Wesley family all wrote hymns, including the father, three sons and a daughter, though the two brothers, John and Charles, wrote the most of all. The first volume of hymns by John Wesley was published in 1738, and the first one by Charles Wesley in 1739. Following these at intervals, John Wesley published five more volumes separately. Charles Wesley published 38 volumes separately, and the two brothers published several volumes together. Most of the volumes were small, some of them containing less than twenty hymns, but 20 of them contained more than one hundred hymns each, and one of Charles Wesley's volumes contained 455. Charles Wesley is said to have written altogether 6,500 hymns. His volume of hymns for children, published in 1763, contained 2,030. The sister, Mehitabel Wesley, who, by an unhappy marriage, became Mrs. Wright, wrote some hymns, but did not publish any.

Sources of World's Rivers.

The Shannon has its source in a lake, the Rhone in a glacier, and the Abyssinian branch of the Nile in a confluence of fountains. The country where some of the mightiest rivers of the globe have their rise has not yet been sufficiently explored to render their true source ascertainable. The origin of others is doubtful, owing to a number of hills presenting equal claims to be considered as the riverhead; but many are clearly referable to a single spring, the current of which is speedily swelled by tributary waters, ultimately flowing in broad and deep channels to the sea.

Historical Misnomers.

History is full of misnomers. Our fathers began to call Lincoln Old Abe when he was only fifty-one years of age. He died at fifty-six and so never was old.

The most famous regiment that has participated in any American war was Morgan's Virginia Riflemen of the Revolution. But 192 of those troops were from Pennsylvania and only 163 from Virginia and 65 from Maryland.

The pet name for Napoleon was the Little Corporal, but he never was a corporal. He entered the French army as a lieutenant.—Philadelphia Ledger.

How Dogs Smell.

The dog's well-known keen sense of smell is of great service to him and his master. In addition to the olfactory or smelling nerves which have their terminal inside the dog's nostrils the entire area of the black membrane around his nose is very sensitive. This sensitiveness is acute, however, only when the membrane is moist, and it is nature's provision for keeping it so that makes the dog's nose always cold and clammy.

WOMEN TAKE UP FARM WORK

War Has Made It More or Less Necessary in England—Uses Special Costume.

Farm work for women has become fashionable. College girls from Newnham, Oxford and almost the entire enrollment from Sheffield university are among the volunteers for war work in the fields, and girls who had previously devoted all their energies to sport and fashion are making a fad of it. A special costume for women farmers has been designed and exhibited. The suit is made of tough brown linen fashioned into a long coat buttoned down the front. Knickerbockers of the same material are worn underneath, buttoning below the knee. This costume is not only cheap, but allows as much freedom of movement as man's dress. Because of the knickers the women farmers can climb trees for pruning or picking fruit. Some prejudice is encountered on the part of the old-fashioned farmers. When they receive an application for work from a girl who looks like the dairymaid of a comic opera, they are inclined to give a refusal on the spot. Most of the applicants have little idea of what real farm work is like. They think of a rose-covered cottage, with tea served in the garden among the flowers, and an arcanian existence. But they are willing to learn about pigs, chickens and stock, and generally do well at fruit picking and bay raking.—London Mail.

FUTURE OF FISHERS ISLAND

Possibility of Great Doings at Place Which is Key to Long Island Sound.

Almost off the entrance to the Thames estuary, whose mouth makes New London's wonderful harbor, perhaps a sort of delta cast up in some former day by the sediment which the estuary brought down, Fishers Island is a remarkable bit of land. It is with a key to the entrance of Long Island sound and bears an important fort whose unseen gun would, if effectively served, pour terrible hail on any above surface craft which should seek to enter for improper purposes the approach to New York and the Connecticut coast. Aside from this Fishers Island has at its western end a hotel or two and a few summer cottages and for the rest it is a great poultry range, where are raised in astonishing quantities chickens and ducks and turkeys and geese, says the New Haven Register.

If the now rumored plans are carried out the poultry will have to move before long to some spot that has less strategic military value. Young John Hays Hammond has invented a wireless controlled torpedo which, it is anticipated, has wonderful possibilities if it will do what is claimed for it.

Use for Soapweed.

Settlers in western Kansas are finding that there is money in the despised soapweed that they have been burning to get it out of the way. Soap manufacturers are now paying $8 a ton for the plant at the railway stations. Since a man can ordinarily get out a ton a day, the gathering of the soap weed gives the settler a chance to make good wages at a time when there is nothing to do on the farm or ranch. Besides, every plant means just that much more pasture ground. After cutting, the soapweed is allowed to dry from 60 to 90 days and is then baled in ordinary broom-corn machines. This species of Spanish bayonet gathered by the Kansas farmers is technically known as hacata and has exceptionally large fruit. For a long time this weed has been made into a soapy decoction which the Indian and Mexican women have used, particularly for washing their hair. It is well suited for this purpose, as it contains no alkali. Present-day manufacturers use it for toilet and wool soaps.

Really a Serious Matter.

Two neighbors had a long litigation about a small spring, which they both claimed. The judge, wearied out with the case, at last said: "What is the use of making so much fuss about a little water?" "Your honor will see the serious nature of the case," replied one of the lawyers, "when I inform you that the parties are both milkmen."

BEST OF LIGHTNING RODS

Conductor, It is Claimed, Will Give the Most Effective Protection Yet Devised.

Mention is made in a recent number of a German journal of a lightning conductor which, it is claimed, gives much more effective protection than the usual rod. The inventor took an ordinary lightning rod and equipped it below the point with a disk that was overlaid by electrolysis with about two milligrams of bromide of radium, so put on that it was weatherproof.

The experiments made showed that the preparation of radium ionized the air, making it conductive, for a wide circuit around the point of the lightning rod. This led, naturally, to a decided fall of potential in the atmospheric electricity and to equalization between the various strata of air lying in layers one over another.

The charge of atmospheric electricity in these strata flowed toward the point through the air, which was still a good conductor even at a considerable distance from the point of the conducting rod, and was carried from the point to the ground.

In addition to the increase of radius of action of the lightning rod, the ionizing of the air by a preparation of radium seems to cause the carrying off of stronger currents of atmospheric electricity.

NECESSARY TO FIND TICKET

Bishop Had Good Reason for Making Search for Article That He Had Misplaced.

The distinguished and well-beloved bishop of a certain southern state is so absent-minded that his family is always apprehensive for his welfare when he is away from home.

Not long ago, while making a journey by rail, the bishop was unable to find his ticket when the conductor asked for it.

"Never mind, bishop," said the conductor, who knew him well. "I'll get it on my second round."

However, when the conductor passed through the car again, the ticket was still missing.

"Ob, well, bishop, it will be all right if you never find it!" the conductor assured him.

"No it won't, my friend," contradicted the bishop. "I've got to find that ticket. I want to know where I'm going."—Youth's Companion.

British North Borneo.

The state of British North Borneo is governed by the British North Borneo company, a chartered company, the only one remaining under the British flag. The governor is appointed by the company with the approval of the British secretary of state for the colonies. The population is estimated at 500,000, there being less than 400 whites. United States Consul Hanson, at Sandakan, states that he is informed that within twenty miles of that place are natives who have never seen a white man, and who live by the spear and the blow pipe just as did their ancestors of the tenth century. Mr. Hanson states that elephants and rhinoceroses are so plentiful that they are a nuisance to owners of rubber and coconut estates by destroying young trees, and that "the telegraph line across the country is out of commission a third of the time because the elephants rub against the posts and push them down."

CHINESE FEAR THEIR FOWLS

Odd Superstition That Causes a Shortage of Chickens and Eggs.

Details of Chinese superstitions and folklore are related in a letter from Gilbert McIntosh, a Presbyterian missionary in Shanghai, which was made public by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. Mr. McIntosh in his letter says, according to the New York Herald:

The railway has brought much nearer to Shanghai a Taoist hell in the province of Chekiang, which brings great profit to the priests. In the temple are long rows of figures of kings of hades; effigies of the spirits of the lower world, ready to seize the victims and escort them below; gods in the torture chamber passing judgment, and demons carrying their orders out, and many other gruesome contrivances to work on the fears and credulity of the pilgrims and swell the revenues of the priests.

You possibly are surprised at the superstition and credulity that prevail. The other day the local papers in Shanghai referred to the fear of impending trouble arising out of the recrudescence of a peculiar superstition which exists in the minds of a number of Chinese regarding five claw chickens. I quote from a local account:

"The superstition is one which has been believed for centuries, latterly more especially if not exclusively by the people in the lowest spheres, although at one time influential people were disposed to attach considerable importance to it. Like many other superstitions, however, it has felt the effects of education, until now it is believed in only by the more uneducated classes.

"The superstition is that all chickens having 'claws' on their wings are poisonous, and that they generally foretell disaster. It is not necessary that all affected fowls should be possessed of five claws, but the more there are the more poisonous is the flesh.

"The superstition is now causing a good deal of trouble at Luanehow. As the result of the destruction of fowls because of the 'five claws,' fowls and eggs are practically unobtainable, and the farmers are feeling the position acutely."

COLLIE HERO KILLS SNAKE

Dog Sacrifices Own Life to Save That of His Six-Year-Old Mistress.

Don, a collie dog owned by John Miller of Fairfield avenue, West Caldwell, N. J., gave up his life to save Agnes, the six-year-old daughter of his master.

Agnes and her elder sister, Clara, were romping with the dog when it pounced upon a copperhead snake directly in the path of the little girl. The elder sister grabbed Agnes and ran home with her and informed their father.

Miller ran to the scene with a club, but before he got there the dog had killed the snake, but had himself been bitten. Shortly after he got back to the house he showed symptoms of poisoning and soon after died. Miss Clara Miller said that had not the dog tackled the snake when he did her little sister would have been bitten.

Purified Water.

Throughout the whole country the word has been passed to beware of bad water.

Your family doctor will tell you that the safest thing to do is to boil every drop of water that you drink.

Here is a simple arrangement for distilling water:

Slip one end of a hose over the kettle and let the other end pass down through a tightly fitting cork into an earthenware jug.

The steam rising from the kettle spout passes through the hose to the jug, and as the latter is cooled by the water outside, the steam condenses, or once more becomes water minus all impurities.

Once the device is set up you will not need to pay much attention to it, for the steam that usually goes to waste will be constantly forming into water.

The water surrounding the jug need only be changed once a day.

His Herculean Task.

A youth, who bore the earmarks of a college boy, stood forlornly on a corner smoking furiously a new white pipe. Every fifteen minutes or so he knocked the ashes from the bowl and, stuffing it again with tobacco, resumed his puffing.

"Old fellow, what's the idea—coughs?" asked a friend who came upon him.

"Well, you see, I took father's meerschaum out this morning and it dropped on the sidewalk and broke. Now I've got to get this one colored before I can go home," answered the young man.

Source of the Nile.

To discover the source of the Nile, led from the knowledge of all antiquity, was the object of Bruce's adventurous journey; and we can readily enter into his emotions as he stood by the two fountains, after all the toils and hazards he had braved.

Bruce, however, labored under an error in supposing the stream he had followed to be the main branch of the Nile. He had traced to its springs the smaller of the two great rivers which contribute to form this celebrated stream.

Stopped Those Pains.

Copper Hill, Va.—Mrs. Ida Conner, of this place, says: "For years, I had a pain in my right side, and was very sick with womanly troubles. I tried different doctors but could get no relief. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I took Cardui, and now I feel like a new person. It is a wonderful medicine." Many women are completely worn-out and discouraged on account of some womanly trouble. Are you? Take Cardui, the women's tonic. Its record shows that it will help you. Why wait? Try it today. Terrible Abyss.

The greatest depth yet sounded is $1,200 feet, near the island of Guam. If Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain, were plucked from its seat and dropped into this spot, the waves would roll 2,000 feet above its crest. Into this terrible abyss the waters press down with a force more than 10,000 pounds to the square inch. The stanchest ship ever built would be crumpled under this awful pressure like an eggshell under a steam roller. A pine beam, 15 feet long, which held open the mouth of the trawl used in making a cast at a depth of more than 18,000 feet was crushed flat as if it had been passed between rollers.

DRIED FRUITS IN DESSERTS

Properly Used, It May Be Made to Serve to as Good Purpose as the Fresh.

Dried fruit is quite as nice as fresh, but it has been overworked in the alleged interest of economy. It will make a dessert second to none, if properly used.

The covered enameled ware casserole is the proper cooking utensil for dried fruit. Let it soak over night, and cook very slowly, and it will retain its shape and also its finest flavor. In addition it should have some sort of accompanying flavor. Prunes soaked in just enough wine to cover them and then cooked in this way taste like something costly. Apricots cooked with raisins are good. So are dried apples cooked in the good, old-fashioned way, in elder. A mixture of two or three kinds of dried fruit, all cooked together, is good. Dried peaches—add a little vanilla to the syrup when they are done. Dried cherries are not used here to any extent, but in England, where the cherry is an old and famous fruit, they are used with currants in plum cake, and very nice they are. It is perfectly practicable to use any sort of dried fruit, cooked slowly in this way, to add flavor to bread puddings or steamed puddings. The fruit can be either mixed with the bread pudding or put in the dish with the bread on top, or in layers; but when it is used the bread should not be soaked in milk; the fruit juice will make enough moisture, and the bread should merely be soaked enough in water to make it soft, and cooked with the fruit, covered.

FOR THE MORNING REPEAT

Some Dishes That Are More Than Usually Acceptable in the Hot Weather.

In the summer this meal should be simple and of wholesome, easily digested food. Of course things must be tasty, and quite as much thought and pains should be expended on a light breakfast as on a heavy one. Foods should be selected in reference to their suitability to one another and the season. The Sunday morning breakfast should be different. Banish from the Sunday morning breakfast table anything that is served on week day mornings except coffee.

Here are a few simple menus which may serve as a guide:

Peaches or stewed pears, hominy, poached eggs on toast, cocoa or coffee. Raspberries or blackberries, fried egg plant, toast, coffee.

Blackberries, cream of wheat, molded eggs, toast, coffee.

Fruit, cereal, small broiled lamb chops, with cold asparagus; rolls, coffee.

Fruit, cereal, an omelet with peas, asparagus or tomatoes, biscuits, coffee.

Fruit, cereal, a well-soaked salt mackerel, broiled or broiled, with a cream parsley sauce; rolls, cocoa or coffee.

Fruit, cereal, creamed dried beef, muffins, coffee. Chop fine a cupful of dried beef. Put over the fire with one gill of cream or milk. Season with pepper and stir in four beaten eggs. When thick turn over squares of hot buttered toast.

Orange juice, cereal, broiled mackerel, baked potatoes, toast, coffee.

Carafe Frappe.

Frappe, as most persons know, is to freeze, and carafe is the glass decanter smart folk use at their functions for holding drinking water. Fill the bottles with distilled water to within an inch of the top and then sink them to two-thirds depth in a tub of ice, as for making ice cream; use less salt than for cream, and do not have the ice cover the decanters any higher than stated, as the glass may break. Stopper them with bits of absorbent cotton during the freezing. The ice forms at the bottom of the bottles and the displaced water rises, and as long as the ice remains the decanters can be refilled and used after a few minutes.

Bake Vegetables.

Do not boil vegetables in the old-fashioned way and throw away most of the substance in the water.

Cook them in the oven and preserve the flavor and prevent odors in the house.

This last is especially true of sauerkraut, cabbage and onions. If you have no casserole cook them in a granite pan, placed in a pan of water in the oven. If to be served with a cream sauce, pour a thin sauce over the raw vegetables and cook till tender, or cook with butter or meat fryings or bacon.

Baked Sausages.

Place them in a dripping pan in single layer and bake in a moderate oven; turn them when half done, that they may be brown on both sides; serve with pieces of toast between them, having cut the toast about the size of the sausages and moistened with a little of the sausage fat.

Potato and Pea Salad.

Cook the peas in salted water; when done, put aside to cool; add to them cold boiled potatoes cut in small dice; also a hard boiled egg and a white, hotted onion, chopped fine; pour over them a dressing made of oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste.

To Save the Fruit Jar.

Before pouring hot fruit into a glass dish or jar, place the receptacle on a cloth wet in cold water. This prevents the glass from breaking.—Good House.

What a Doctor Says.

Walking is the best exercise. Do some of it every day. Next to walking comes bowling. You can't throw a bowling ball without stooping clear to the floor, and every stoop stimulates the liver and exercises the intestines. Fifty per cent of the sickness in the world would be eliminated if everybody bowled. Walk or bowl every day. And at night lie flat on your back and raise your legs above your head, slowly, as many times as you can without fatigue. Then, anchoring your toes under a weight of some sort, raise and lower the body. These two exercises repeated fifteen or twenty times night and morning will do a lot for you. And you'll be surprised to find how quickly you develop endurance. Start with five times and increase each day or two until you reach twenty.—Woman's Home Companion.

MONKEY IN DISPUTE.

W. W. Ford, the owner of a monkey, who had a concession at the fair, gave a bill of sale for $20 to another show man. The man who had the claim, an Indian, got the monkey and held it Saturday night and Ford took the matter into court to recover his monkey. Judge Knight decided that the monkey belongs to Ford and the Indian could not enforce his claim without an order of sale. Sheriff Jewell Smith has the monkey while Ford is trying to raise $20 to pay off the debt.

Narrow Escape.

Eight people of Cloverport, three men and five women, had a narrow escape from a catastrophe last evening when a motorboat carrying them struck a log and went down in the Ohio river. They donned life preservers and were picked up by townspeople who went to the rescue.

DOGWOOD DOTS.

Dogwood, Oct. 4—Nearly all of the farmers of this section have finished cutting tobacco, while a few have about half of their crop out yet.

The corn crop is fairly good. There is more sorghum than usual and the mills are running all over the country, making molasses, and everybody can have a sweet biscuit and the children can have candy pullings at home. The apple crop will be light, as the fruit has been failing badly for several months. Pears are abundant and of fine quality.

The revival at Ford's Chapel Christian church has closed. There were twelve additions to the church. Seven were baptized and five were from other churches. The pastor, Rev. Henry Moore, of Hopkins county, was assisted in the meeting by Rev. Shelby Rowe, of Sturgis.

The sanctified brethren conducted a ten-days-meeting on the Johnson Mill road, under a brush arbor, near Pleasant Hill Baptist church. There were twelve conversions and the converts will join the church of their choice. Brothers Charles Shelton and H. M. Satterfield, of Allegree, conducted the services.

Joe Fruit was taken suddenly ill a few nights ago and suffered intensely until the next morning, when a physician arrived at his bedside and afforded relief. He is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fruit were guests of Mr. Joe Fruit's family recently.

Rev. T. T. Powell filled his regular appointment the 26th ult.

Rev. Henry Moore filled the pulpit at Ford's Chapel last Sunday, both morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Carter's little daughter has diphtheria. It is a very bad case but her condition is regarded as somewhat improved and hopes for her recovery are entertained. SENRAB.

A pleasing program of special music and other features will also be rendered. Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

Once I Saw.

Once I saw
Tombed in a hard of liquid, golden ambler,
A cruel spider and a silly fly,
And a wise ant, quite close together.
—Allan Updegraff, in Lippincott's.

Once I saw
Perched on my bed, a flock of pink and green snakes,
A blue monkey and a red giraffe,
And a purple dog, all in a bunch.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Once I saw
Approaching toward my flyover on the highway,
A heavy truck and a speeding bike
And an icecart, too close to dodge.
—Boston Journal.

Once I saw
As I held three deuces at a little green table,
A king full, and a flush
And a straight, and they told me to stay out till I had some'ing.
—Detroit Free Press.

Once I saw
On a plate before me sauer kraut and cream puffs,
Hot tamales and a slab of pie,
And my digestion took me by the hand
And led me forth into the night.
—Commercial Appeal.

Once I saw
On a summer day a maiden tripping along the street,
Clad in the height of style,
A gown that cost her dad a pile.
But after all was said and seen,
She had on darn few clothes.
